Art Unit: 1793

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Varshovi. No distinction is seen between the organic-based fertilizer disclosed by Varshovi, and that recited in applicants' claims. Varshovi discloses a fertilizer formed by incorporating liquid nutrients into organic based materials. (See especially col. 4, line 4 to col. 6, line 32.) The various treatment methods recited in claim 1 would not necessarily result in the fertilizer composition having properties distinguishable from Varshovi.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Marchese. No distinction is seen between the fertilizer composition disclosed by Marchese, and that recited in claims 1-7. Marchese discloses a fertilizer formed by deodorizing porcine extremity by the nitrification/denitrification technique, followed by adding to this extremity a solution of phosphorus pentoxide and potassium oxide. (See col. 1, line 7 to col. 2, line 63.) The fertilizer of Marchese would inherently contain 10% to 60% of a mineral fertilizer, since the reference discloses at col. 1, lines 33-39 that the fertilizer is balanced as to nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Varshovi in view of Marchese. Varshovi discloses a fertilizer formed by incorporating liquid nutrients into organic based materials. (See especially col. 4, line 4 to col. 6, line 32.) The difference between the fertilizer disclosed by Varshovi, and that recited in applicants' claims, is that applicants' claims require a treatment of the pig manure prior to incorporation of the fertilizer. Marchese discloses a fertilizer formed by deodorizing porcine extremity by the nitrification/denitrification technique, followed by adding to this extremity a solution of phosphorus pentoxide and potassium oxide. (See col. 1, line 7 to col. 2, line 63.) It would be obvious from Marchese to subject the organic-based material of Varshovi to a nitrification/denitrification treatment prior to incorporation of the liquid nutrients. One of ordinary skill in the art would be motivated to do so, since it is apparent from col. 1, lines 19-21 of Marchese that the fertilizer should be free of odor before it can be spread on fields.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The term "prior incorporation" is ungrammatical and therefor indefinite.

The other references are made of record for disclosing organic-based fertilizers.
